At last night's city council meeting, August Nieto presented the above "proposed layout" for a Carmel civic center.

Architect George Wilcox, who drew the plan for Mr. Nieto, emphasized that it is simply a "layout to give you an idea on paper of an idea" of how the city could utilize the Junipero and Fourth Street property it already owns, if it should acquire the three lots which Mrs. Arthur White has offered the city, through Mr. Nieto, for $75,000.

Mrs. White's property lies in the upper right hand corner of the plan. Approximately two-thirds of it, shown inclosed by a hedge, is designated "corporation yard." In the upper left corner, partially hidden behind the suggested city hall is the Carmel Youth Center. Room has been allowed for the center's auditorium extension which is shown in the plan.

The suggested city hall, iceberg fashion, has more below than above. The citizens shown near the flag pole are standing on the roof of a concrete 15,000 square foot basement that would house the city fire department including fire engines, ambulances, etc., with exit behind the Youth Center on Torres Street; the police department, a small lecture hall, and a junior branch of the library.

The slope of the land, and the excavation required, is similar to the Fenton block at Ocean and Junipero. Mr. Wilcox said he'd talked with the contractors on the Fenton job and he estimated that the City Hall basement would cost $120,000 for excavation, concrete structure with partitions, heating and lighting.

Upstairs, city administration offices, with a magnificent view of Carmel Bay and Point Lobos, would adjoin the parking area. The council chambers, the auditorium-like building with the modest little steeple, would have its entrance on Fourth Street. About 50 by 70 square feet in area, it would seat 300 people. City Clerk Larry Rose suggested, and the council liked the idea, that the council chambers-auditorium could be built so that it could be used also as a small music hall for chamber music concerts.

"Shut Up Or Prove It," P. A. McCreery Challenges Norberg

P. A. McCreery is chairman of the Carmel Youth Center Adult Board, but he made a point of saying he was speaking as a citizen at last night's city council meeting when he told Councilman Gunnar Norberg:

"Your remarks reflect on every boy and girl in the community, where every boy and girl is a member of the Youth Center, when you question the morals of the Youth Center."

He stated that Norberg had failed to produce any evidence to back up his attacks on the Youth Center, concluding with, "You owe an apology to these young people. An adult can take it. These young people can't. Now prove it or shut up."

Norberg appealed to Mayor John Chitwood, "Aren't these remarks out of order?"

"The remarks are rather sharp," said the mayor, "but the provocation is great."

McCreery's indignant demand came at the end of a half-hour's angry exchange between the four other councilmen and Councilman Norberg, which began after City Clerk Larry Rose read a letter from the Carmel Youth Center Adult Board to the city council:

"At the October 7, 1959 meeting of the city council, certain adverse remarks were directed at the Carmel Youth Center by Councilman Gunnar Norberg."

"Mr. Norberg's words, 'The proper kind of moral restraints and ethical guidance are thought to be lacking' prompted a special (Continued on Page Sixteen)

3 Councilmen Say "No" To Putting Meters On Ballot

The long, weary, angry city council meeting lasted until 12:15 last night. In addition to the Youth Center fight (see column 1) there was the acerbating business of parking meters.

City Clerk Larry Rose reported two petitions opposing parking meters, one signed by 629 residents of the city, the other by non-residents who had come to town to shop. Adding 260 signatures of residents on a similar petition presented to the council last month, there is a total of 889. Councilman Gunnar Norberg pointed out that 1403 citizens had voted in the last city election; the 889 petition signers represent a majority of the voting citizens.

Councilman Everett May said that three members are running for council in March. He thought it would be appropriate for the new council to handle the parking meter proposal or it might be desirable to put it on the ballot as a referendum. He thought a study should be made of other means of raising revenue. If parking meters are installed, "the group of persons who would benefit will be discouraged from forming a parking district to raise revenue for parking lots. Little cities as attractive as Carmel will always have a substantial parking problem, no matter what you do. Parking meters would not solve it."

Councilman Allen Knight said a parking district had been attempted and had failed.

In announcing his candidacy for his first term on the city council in the March 3, 1950 issue of the Pine Cone, Mayor John Chitwood said:

"I am interested in the continuation of Carmel in its present environmental condition and the maintenance of the standard over the years of Carmel as a unique residential area. I want to see preserved the features of the town that make it unique not only to local residents but almost to the entire nation."

How does that square with parking meters?

Col. C. A. De Camp, who does not share Mayor Chitwood's enthusiasm for parking meters, made a survey this week of property owner opinion on Scenic Drive, from Ocean Avenue to Thirteenth Street. He passed up renters, and some of the home owners were on vacation, but he was able to talk to 40 citizens who as taxpayers presumably would look favorably on a revenue raising device. Two favored parking meters; 38 were opposed.

"If we can just stay united with our eyes on our ideals and not on mirages of monetary expediency . . ." On Page Eight of this issue, Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Broaddus of Carmel give their view on parking meters.

Richard Richardson, proprietor of the Casual Shop on Ocean Avenue, doesn't like parking meters. Col. C. A. De Camp's report on control of building site ordinance.

Knight, Buffington and Chitwood, voting no, defeated Francis Whitaker's suggestion that the city council recommend to Senator Fred Farr and Assemblyman Alan Pattee to initiate study for legislation to have hotel and motel accommodations brought under state sales and use tax regulations.

Last night, the city council presented Victor Velissaratos with a document commanding him for his "dogged determination" in collecting enough money from property owners in the vicinity of Eighth street to pay for material to pave two blocks of Eighth between Junipero and Mountain View, as a (Continued on Page Four)

Business District Chest Returns Lag Sur Over The Top

Carmel Community Chest collections total 62.5 percent of the desired $37,000 quota, according to Brayton Witherall, executive secretary of the organization. Business district returns lag far behind those of the residence district, he adds. Robert McKeever, Jr., head of the Monterey Peninsula Chest Drive, states that if Carmel business district collections do not increase it may be necessary to have an additional drive in this area.

First Community Chest area to meet quota demands is Big Sur. Mrs. Nathaniel Owings, who heads the Chest drive in this locality, has turned in $1381.00 which exceeds the Big Sur quota of $1,280. Mrs. Owings' collections amount to a 65 percent increase over last year's Community Chest returns from Big Sur. Mr. Witherall reports.

Going into the final two weeks' of play, the Coast Counties Athletic League B-division football race has resolved into a three-way chase among Carmel, Hollister, and Gilroy. Tomorrow night's crucial tilt at Hollister will find either Carmel or the Haybalers on top with the losers tied with Gilroy if the Mustangs get over King City. The other schools are out of title contention but Pacific Grove High could get a share of second place by beating San Lorenzo and Carmel in its next two outings.

Tomorrow night's league action finds Pacific Grove at San Lorenzo, (Harvey West Stadium in Santa Cruz), King City at Gilroy, Live Oak at Gonzales, and Carmel at Hollister.

PADRE GRIDDERS WIN DOUBLE-HEADER FROM SAN LORENZO

Following pretty close to the script, Carmel High's varsity and jayvee football squads powered to convincing victories over the hard-hitting San Lorenzo Cougars last Saturday night at the Santa Cruz Seahawk Stadium. At times the Carmel lads appeared to be merely going through the motions, but generated enough steam to push across four touchdowns and make good on all the conversions in the varsity fracas and hit paydirt five times in the junior-varsity preliminary.

San Lorenzo's junior-varsity aggregation succumbed to the power running of Danny Moore and John Draper and was blitzed by Frank Bucher's accurate passes which were hauled down by ends Scott Forbes and Mike Quarrie and backs Draper and Baldwin. Bucher connected for 9 out of 13 passes and kept the Cougar Babe defense loose during the entire game. Ahead, 20 to 6, at the end of the first half, the Padres picked up insurance touchdowns in the third and fourth periods to finish in front 32 to 6. Sterling defensive players Tony Schaurer, Jim Wilcox, and Danny Moore put the damper on the Cougar Babe's offense and forced the hosts to go overhead for any substantial gains. Leading the Little Padre's offensive charge was center David Faulkner and guards Tony Steliga and Tony Schaurer. Faulkner's downfield blocking was the best exhibited by a jayvee center since the days of Alan Eaker.

Carmel's varsity hit the scoreboard early in the first quarter as Ron Faia, Dave Hansen, and Mike Draper moved the ball 58 yards in 8 plays. Hansen tallied from 6 yards out and Doyle Clayton's perfect conversion kick put the Padres in front, 7 to 0. The scrappy Cougars came back strong to earn a touchdown early in the second period as they found a leak in the Padre pass defense and moved 63 yards for the score. Trying to run for the extra point, the quarterback was smothered by the hard-charging Carmel forwards and the Cougar scoring was finished until late in the going. A forward-lateral maneuver put the Padres in scoring position for their second touchdown as Frank Mayo passed to Doyle Clayton who lateraled off to fullback Dave Hansen. With the ball on the 16-yard line, quarterback Mayo swept the left flank for the second touchdown. Clayton's successful kick gave Carmel a 14-6 bulge at halftime.

Mike Draper's slashing runs inside the Cougar tackles set up two touchdowns for the Red & Gray in the second half and had the game pretty well salted away early in the fourth period. The scrappy Cougars fought back all the way and put another 6-points on the board late in the final period when they intercepted an errant Padre lateral and ran it 82 yards for the score. The Cougars' running attempt for the conversion failed and the final score had the Padres in front, 28 to 12.

Solid defensive play by Carmel tackles Tim Mitchell and Chris Wilkin slowed up the quick hitting Cougar attack and allowed the Padres to establish ball control for most of the game. Successful punt runbacks by Frank Mayo were helped along by the devastating blocking of Padre linemen Toby Edson, Brian LeNeve, Tim Mitchell, Harrison Hilbert, Doug McClurg, and Chris Wilkin. These front-liners moved down the opposition to provide clear running lanes for the fleet junior quarterback.

Next action for the Carmel gridders is slated for this Friday night at Hollister where a showdown battle will be waged for the CCAL B-division championship. Jayvee action at 6:00 o'clock and varsity kickoff at 8:00.

CARMEL HIGH BATTLES HOLLISTER FOR LEAGUE LEAD FRIDAY NIGHT

With the winner assured of at least a tie for the CCAL B-division championship, the Carmel Padres and the Hollister Haybalers will square off in the feature game of the Coast Counties Athletic League this Friday night at the Hollister High stadium. Both Hollister and Carmel are undefeated in league play and records against common opponents show this one to be an even-up contest. It will be Hollister's blazing speed and bruising line against Carmel's quick-hitting scat backs and crisp-blocking line. Friday night's preliminary fracas matches the undefeated Carmel jayvees with the twice-beaten Hollister reserves. The Little Padres appear to pack too much power for the Hayseeds and should be in the driver's seat when this one is finished.

Hollister's league opponents so far this season have been Pacific Grove, King City, San Lorenzo, and Gonzales. The Haybalers clipped Pacific Grove, 28 to 6; ran roughshod over San Lorenzo, 39 to 13; powered over King City, 26 to 13; and topped Gonzales, 21 to 12. Carmel has beaten King City, Gonzales, and San Lorenzo but has yet to play Pacific Grove. The Padres also hold a win over the Gilroy Mustangs who have Hollister on their schedule for November 13.

Coach Bill Lawson's Haybalers are veterans in CCAL football wars, nineteen of this year's varsity having earned their letters last season. Most of the squad played at Carmel last season when the Padres upset the Haybalers, 26 to 6, and eliminated them from the B-division race. The Hollister gang would like nothing better than to turn the tables on the Padres this year and cut off the Carmel win streak. In Armando Salcedo, Ted Schmidt, Jim Carrasco, and Ken Stevens, Hollister has outstanding speed and plenty of power. Salcedo is the CCAL B-division sprint champion while Schmidt and Carrasco are rated the top line plungers in the league. Stevens is a three-year veteran at the quarterback spot and has a brilliant passing record. Up front, the Haybalers have two All-CCAL performers in guard John Cueba and end Lloyd Mefford. Cueba has been the spearhead of the Hollister line all season while Mefford is the favorite target when quarterback Stevens starts the overhead game.

Carmel will attempt to counter the star-studded Haybaler squad with a starting offensive unit of Doyle Clayton and Toby Edson, ends; Tim Mitchell and Chris Wilkin, tackles; Ron Adams and John Wilkin, guards; Co-captain Harrison Hilbert, center; Russ Wise, quarterback; Co-captain Ron Faia and Mike Draper, halfbacks; and David Hansen, fullback. On defense, the Padres will platoon with Doug McClurg, Brian LeNeve, Fred Bucher, Frank Mayo, Paul Rice, Bill Coleman, and Darrell Clark.

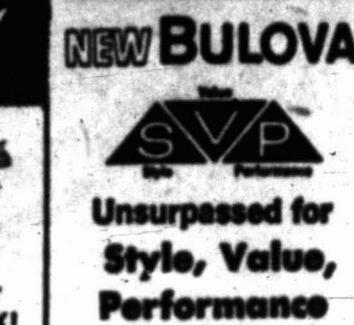

Coach Fred Rainer's starting unit in Friday night's 6:00 o'clock tussle will be Scott Forbes and Mike Quarrie, ends; Scott Davis and Frank Preve, tackles; Tony Schaurrer and Tony Steliga, guards; David Faulkner, center; Frank Bucher, quarterback, Charley Todd and Rick Baldwin, halfbacks; and Lee Oleson, fullback.

3 Councilmen Say "No" To Putting Meters On Ballot

(Continued from Page One) De Camp, Frank Dixon, Herbert Heron, Mrs. Robert D. Strum, and Victor Velissaratos spoke against the meters. May made a motion to put the issue on the ballot, but Knight, Buffington, and Chitwood voted no. Knight and Buffington, members of a committee to study cost and possible revenue from meters, held out for a continuance, since they haven't assembled all their material yet.

The mayor expressed doubts of the significance of petitions and was opposed to putting revenue matters on the ballot. Finding revenue is the responsibility of the council, he insisted.

The council put over for study a request of representatives of the musicians' union, Local 616, to repeal the sections in the city ordinance which prohibit dancing, entertainment, and playing musical instruments on premises where alcoholic beverages are sold.

The mayor's nomination of Charles E. Myrick and Robert Strum to the Forest Commission, and George R. Walker to the garbage board was approved.

Council accepted low bid from Beattie Motors for a Ford truck for the street department, $2,424; tabled a request of I. Magnin's to install terminals for a burglar alarm in the police office; voted "no" to Mrs. L. O. Kellogg's request for a short period parking zone near the library; set 4:00 o'clock November 16 for an adjourned meeting study session on when the city council wanted to give the two blocks of Junipero south of Ocean Avenue the major street improvement treatment (curb, gutter, tree felling) Victor Velissaratos' "dogged determination" helped to defeat the project. Junipero Street was not mentioned in the city council's commendatory document to Mr. Velissaratos last night.

John Bloom

John McLeod Bloom died early yesterday morning in a local hospital after a long period of failing health. He was 81 years old.

Mr. Bloom was born in London, England, on August 29, 1878. He received his early education at the Arundel and Berkhamstead Schools in England. He retired in 1923 after a career as a chemist.

For 20 years Mr. Bloom lived below Big Sur in his home, Las Rocas, built on the west side of Highway 1 above the ocean. He next lived in Carmel Valley for five years and more recently in Carmel.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Louise Rankin Bloom of Carmel; three daughters, Mrs. Archer M. R. Allen of Carmel, Mrs. Fred Rust and Mrs. Joseph Vermaut both of Santa Barbara; three grandchildren; and three great-grandchildren.

Dr. Carleton Whitehead of the Church of Religious Science will officiate at funeral services for Mr. Bloom tomorrow afternoon at 2:00 o'clock in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea in Pacific Grove. Paul Mortuary is in charge of arrangements.

Those wishing to honor the memory of Mr. Bloom are asked to do so in the form of donations to the Carmel Foundation, Box 3424, Carmel.

ACCIDENT, NO INJURIES

Two Carmel persons were involved in a collision at the intersection of Soledad Drive and Highway 1 at 4:10 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Beverly Arnold was driving south on Highway 1 when her car was hit by one driven by Peter Kutschera who was endeavoring to make a left turn off the highway at this point. There were no injuries.

This is the first time in the 17 years we have been "covering" city council meetings that a Carmel City Council has so honored a citizen, though over the years, we have observed much commendable unselfish civic activity on the part of a number of citizens. But we understand.

The Pine Cone protested the projected paving of Eighth Street. We wanted to keep one village-type portion of a street in Carmel, even if it was only two blocks long. It amused us to see the water-wagon sprinkling those two blocks in summer to keep the dust down, and we approved the ruts that slowed the traffic so that children could proceed in safety on their way to Sunset School. We liked seeing those same children, and perhaps envied them a bit, wading, red rubber-booted, in the puddles in winter time.

We live on Torres Street, just off Eighth, and one unimproved block of Eighth was on our route to work. We didn't mind the dust when we walked and we didn't mind slowing down to jounce over the bumps when we rode. Dust and bumps were a minor nuisance, a small price to pay for what we got out of Eighth.

We thought that most of the dwellers in the neighborhood enjoyed Eighth as we did. We must have been mistaken because Mr. Velissaratos was able to collect enough money from them to buy materials for paving those two blocks of Eighth. We bow to the majority.

We also bow to Mr. Velissaratos, as the city council has done. Apparently they have reason to know there is some difficulty in succeeding against the sincere opposition of the Pine Cone.

Also, we remember with appreciation, and some amusement, that either. Just back from Santa Barbara, he reports with satisfaction that when he asked a Santa Barbara citizen why Santa Barbara doesn't have parking meters, the citizen replied: "Nobody wants the damn things."

Our own view is summed up in the Santa Barbara citizen's comment quoted above.

Look Back In Anger Opens Friday At Golden Bough Circle

The Golden Bough Circle Theatre's latest offering, Look Back in Anger by John Osborne, will open this weekend. The cast which shares the burden of Osborne's brilliant and blistering lines includes Peninsula actors Edward Kuster, Rosamond Beck-Meyer, and Eric Barnes. Joining them are two newcomers, Canadian Frankie Conley and Nebraskan Ron Vaad.

Otto Chamlee

Otto David Chamlee died on Sunday in a Salinas hospital after a short illness. He had been a Carmel resident for 30 years. His home was on Junipero Street between Tenth and Eleventh Avenues.

Miss Conley, who has appeared on Broadway and television, began her training at the Abbey Theatre in Dublin and later attended England's Royal Academy of Dramatic Art. She went from London to the Hollywood lots of 20th Century Fox, and theatrical activity has since taken her from coast to coast. She makes her Golden Bough debut as a proper, upper-class English girl caught in a struggle between her moral convictions and her love for Jimmy Porter, the fiery young ne'er-do-well around whom the play centers.

Ron Vaad, an alumnus of Omaha's Community Playhouse and a veteran of Eastern stock companies, comes to Carmel through the courtesy of the U. S. Army. He is a member of the Fort Ord Soldiers' Chorus. In Look Back in Anger he portrays Cliff Lewis, a strong, silent Welshman whose humor and affection provide a cushion against the blows of Porter's lacerating wit.

Osborne's play has been the object of outspoken controversy since it first opened at London's Royal Court Theatre three years ago.

The play puts forth the plight of young people coming of age in a world bereft of ideals.

Friday evening's opening will be followed by five week-ends of performances at the arena theatre on Casanova Street.

snuff out sniffles!

Chilly corners and drafty floors aren't exactly the best playground for children—nor healthy for adults. Going back and forth from warm to cold rooms invites the sniffles. That's why it's good preventative medicine to install electric heaters in those added-on or hard-to-heat rooms. It's also the quick way to warm-up cold corners in other rooms, and make your home comfortable everywhere.

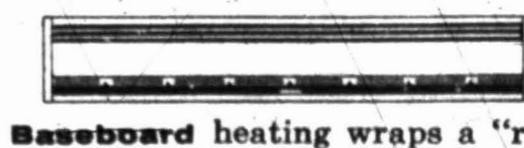

SEE THE LATEST IDEAS IN ELECTRIC HEATING TODAY!

Built-in wall units are convenient out-of-the-way installations; designed to blend with any decor.

Portable heaters are just the thing where you need extra heat for short periods.

Baseboard heating wraps a "ribbon of heat" around the floor of conventional rooms. Replaces existing baseboard.

New perimeter floor inserts are the latest in electric heating comfort, especially for rooms with floor-to-ceiling windows.

Music On The Peninsula

BY MARY LINDSAY-OLIVER

The opening of the symphony season on October 28 in Carmel presented new life in the Monterey County Orchestra in the person of Conductor Earl Bernard Murray and many new players, bringing the orchestra up to 74 where formerly 50 to 60 comprised the group. This takes our orchestra out of the small town status into the possibility of representing an important musical center. It is too early to evaluate Murray's full effect upon it, but from these first Carmel and Salinas concerts, there was evidence that his discipline is not only good for the group but drew forth a performance backed by a definite conducting technique, evolved in the shadows of Monteux, Jorda and his famous bandmaster father, that stamped him with authority and musical sensitivity. His decisive beat brings strong attacks and punctuation, as exhibited throughout the Handel, Brahms, Ratner and Cesar Franck selections, with vigorous and full tone that if somewhat forte throughout was largely due to the size of Sunset Auditorium. (Here again the need of an adequate concert hall for the Peninsula.) Yet the finer nuances and significant phrases from flute, oboe, clarinet and English horn carried over with fine effect, while the inevitably somewhat rough places belonging to the new group will disappear with time. The point is that we now have a large enough aggregation (even five basses, two harps and plenty of cellos) capable of becoming a community orchestra second to none, if the personnel will stick to it, for no conductor can develop the works with absences!

The exciting music for the Royal Fireworks which opened in honor of Handel's bicentenary was an interesting, impressive and representative selection. The Brahms variations on a Theme of Haydn was a more complicated mass of harmony in this composer's rich output and scholarly forms. Harlequin, overture by Leonard Ratner of Stanford University, proved to be a structure of various illusive changes that well fitted his subject. It should become popular among the works of contemporary composers. He was present to receive a full acknowledgement from the audience. The Cesar Franck No. 5 Symphony occupied the second half of the program with its three movements of introspective expression, converging on the final cheerful outlook in a vision of a new and better world.

Murray had just made a success of his first opera conducting for the San Francisco Opera Company in San Diego, and was warmly welcomed when he appeared on the stage, as well as strong applause for the orchestra and himself at close of the concert. In Salinas next evening, in spite of the cramped platform condition, the performance was an advance of the first. Carmel will have the second of the next pair of concerts in December.

Familiar faces in the orchestra were: F. Mazzi, Myriam Zunser, H. M. M. Nicholas (now concert master with John Erickson), Raymond Fabrizio, Marjorie Oren, Elizabeth DuVal, Charlotte Perry, Sheila Webster, Edward Kuster, Louise Friedhofer-Vadetsky, Ronnie Cummings, Marie Sale, Louis Frago, King Benton and others, but no Raymond Duse, who is missed, as well as Joseph and Betty Axup.

Gregory Millar was a surprise and welcome visitor to the Salinas concert and greeted by many backstage who had played under him. He has taken a house at Mill Valley after fine success in Canada where he sang at the Vancouver Festival and did some conducting from memory, though his eyes, which have been treated, are better, and he goes to New York for a business visit this month.

At Nepenthe Sunday a Chamber group of well-known players gave the Handel Sonata in G minor for flute and Harpsichord and the Trio in D minor for Flute, Violin, Cello and Harpsichord Continuo, commemorating the Handel Bicentenary. Myriam Zunser performed the Bach unaccompanied Chaconne in D minor with extraordinary strength and flexibility. One does not remember to have heard it with such vitality, tour de force and masterly bowing, for which she received an ovation from the full house. There was also much applause for Margaret Fabrizio's solo on the harpsichord—a Suite in E major that showed off the tinkling bell tones of the instrument. Helen Stross was the cellist and of course Raymond Fabrizio the flutist and leader with his fine artistry in the Handel Sonata and Trio.

Carl Bensberg was heard in an attractive program of vocal classics at one of Blanche Tolmie's Town House programs. His thoroughly musical voice is always pleasing with his intelligent presentation and good diction. He was accompanied by Lydia Bader with sympathetic support. The audience present enjoyed it all.

Announced this week by the San Francisco Symphony Association is an opportunity to hear the incomparable Vienna Philharmonic on arrival from Honolulu on its World Tour, November 10 at the Opera House. It is conducted by the dynamic Herbert von Karajan, who is known as "The Music Director of Europe," director of the Vienna Opera with frequent assignments with La Scala and the London Philharmonic. The Vienna Philharmonic was founded shortly after the death of Beethoven and Schubert. Its personnel are using instruments played by their fathers and grandfathers in the orchestra before them. Tickets are at Sherman Clay.

"If We Can Just Stay United With Our Eyes On Our Ideals And Not On Mirages Of Monetary Expediency . . ."

An article against parking meters for Carmel and a suggested solution, contributed by Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Broaddus.

The question of having parking meters in Carmel has come up repeatedly in the past, when some newcomer thought he had a bright idea, but it has never been taken too seriously and has always been vehemently opposed and turned down. Many long-time residents seem to think it had been settled for good. But no ordinance permanently forbidding parking meters has ever been passed (as was done against business concessions on the beach.) Now we are chagrined to find that 3 out of 5 City Council members have stated their approval of parking meters for Carmel's business district and have even given a meter company salesman a public hearing to urge his wares, in which he recommended a minimum 25 cent charge for a few minutes' parking. These same councilmen recently voted down a 1 cent tax on motels.

Those of us who want to preserve the unique, simple friendliness and informality of Carmel and the uncluttered beauty of our village do not want certified, commercial gadgets nor conventional stream-lining. We must never forget our charter and the fact that our residents are our primary consideration. This is our village, and we property owners who foot the bills do not want to have to pay a meter in order to attend to our own business up town.

The councilmen who favor parking meters admit that they are for revenue only and will NOT solve the traffic problem. Strangely, Carmel is not at present in any acute need of more revenue, but has even been able to give us a 1/2 cent per $100 tax cut. Furthermore we residents have strongly disapproved of new-comers or non-residents who buy up property here to exploit Carmel for their own personal profit. For example we did not want or need the recent rash of motels and chain stores with absentee owners, and emphatically do not want any more of them. None of them came to Carmel.

*Sycamores are yellow in the street lights
At the lower end of High Street,

Lighting ten thousand candles on the walkway.
Candles or stars? Jewels from cheap casques,
Splintered shells, dry glass, drained of wine
By burdened ones, defying mores.
By day the walkway seems stained by dregs,
Jewels washed by vandal light to oblivion.
By night the sycamores turn to mounds of gold leaf,
And the glass candles are lighted under the feet,
And the dregs are lost in the heavens.*

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg
November is generally a slumped month so far as library patronage is concerned. To overcome this tendency, we have some good new books with which we hope to lure you into the library. This week they are a potpourri of this and that.

An honest-to-goodness western story is the life of Wild Bill Hickok by Richard O'Connor. Now there was a man! He had courage, charm, vanity, the ability to outdraw any other man in the west, and a pair of handlebar mustaches which are described as "stallion-tailed." Plus waistcoats of the finest brocades. His life is told in a readable biography which might even make a TV addict feel at home with the printed page.

Vacations in Colorado are the subject of a book by Kent Ruth. This is too late for 1959 but just in time to help you plan your 1960 vacation, the winter planning being often more fun than the summer tripping.

A clever parody on the minute by minute style of reporting is by Corey Ford and is entitled The Day Nothing Happened. Many people associate Ford with his very funny How to Guess Your Age, and this new one may prove to be like it. At any rate, it's funny, and its short.

Motion pictures, concert stage, grand opera, and television are all included in the experience of Rose Stevens and all are discussed in her biography entitled Subway to the Met. This is the lighthearted story of the rise of a great star. The writing was done by Kyle Crichton.

From the American Institute of Family Relations comes Richard Klemmer with a book called A Man for Every Woman. His statement is that there is a man for every woman—if she really wants him. This is a book for the single woman. It discusses all sides of the question, gives the answers, and asks in the final chapter the question. But after all, is he worth it? So it might be good to read the last chapter at the first and if the answer is no, forget the whole thing.

There are ten new novels and included among them is Robert Ruark's latest which he called Poor No More. This is a big novel telling the story of a man whose drive in life was to be so successful that he would be poor no more. He attained his desire by ruining and draining dry all those who got in his way. It is the powerful story of a ruthless man.

We were pleased and surprised that when Roberta Goulding's map design was forwarded by the County Library to the President, he had a reply sent to the library. A copy is posted on our bulletin board. A kindly thing to do.

Dancers Wanted At The Studio

Modern dancers, both men and women, are requested to report to The Studio Theatre's director, Richard Bailey, if they are interested in dancing in a modern version of a classical Greek play which will be staged in the near future. Dancers with a classical ballet background, as well as those with modern dance training, are urged to see Bailey immediately.

For further information, telephone The Studio.

Death Of A Salesman

Arthur Miller's Death of a Salesman will be given its Monterey Peninsula premiere at Carmel's The Studio on November 19. The play will run Thursday through Saturday of each week ending January 2. All performances begin at 8:30 o'clock.

Death of a Salesman is perhaps the best-known play of Arthur Miller, who is noted also for his All My Sons, The Crucible and View from the Bridge.

Mental Health Play For P. T. A.

A one-act play, Scattered Showers, presented by the Monterey County Mental Health Association, will be the program for the November meeting of the Carmel Elementary Parent-Teacher Association. UNDER MILKWOOD TO HAVE REPEAT PERFORMANCE SUN.

Because of popular demand Dylan Thomas' narrative poem, Under Milkwood, which was performed at The Studio Theatre in Carmel last week, has been scheduled for a repeat performance on Sunday night at 8:30 o'clock.

Featured in the production are Errol Allan, Edith Dinkin, Clifford Berry, Sheila Goldes, Maria Hallsted, and Richard Bailey, who is directing the vehicle as well as doing several of the major characters in the poem.

The Warner Bros. film version of John Osborne's play, Look Back in Anger, opens tonight at the Steinbeck Theater on Cannery Row. Included in the cast are Richard Burton, Claire Bloom, Dame Edith Evans, Gary Raymond and Mary Ure, wife of playwright John Osborne. She created the role of Alison in her husband's play in England and on Broadway. Look Back in Anger, when produced in England some years ago, triggered the cult of the Angry Young Man and catapulted author John Osborne to fame.

Survivors are his wife, Allene, of Carmel; two sons, John Paul Grady of Darien, Connecticut, and Lynn Robert Grady of San Fernando Valley; and five grandchildren.

• CHURCHES •CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

The meaning for today of the book of Genesis will be set forth in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Adam and Fallen Man" at Christian Science services Sunday.

Opening selections to be read from the Bible present these verses: "God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them . . . And God saw every thing that he made, and, behold, it was very good" (Genesis 1:27, 31.)

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy this citation will be read (183:21-23): "Divine Mind rightly demands man's entire obedience, affection, and strength. No reservation is made for any lesser loyalty. Obedience to Truth gives man power and strength. Submission to error superinduces loss of power."

A naval officer turned sculptor is a rare phenomena, but Howell (Hal) Armor has managed the trick.

A graduate of Annapolis in 1924, Armor had a long naval career before he even took notice of a piece of wood sculpture or a carving tool, including some seven years in naval aviation plus service in the South Pacific in World War II.

Born in Baltimore and schooled in Minneapolis, Minnesota, Armor enlisted in the Navy as a kid in 1917, anxious to get into World War I and see some action.

After the war he took the examination for the Naval Academy and soon found himself a plebe. Admiral Yeoman, head of the Navy Post Graduate School in Monterey, was one of his classmates, and Lt. Gen. R. O. Bare of the U. S. Marine Corps, now retired to Carmel Valley was another. Armor retired in 1947.

The most important thing that happened to Commander Armor during midshipman days, he says, was a cruise to Nova Scotia, for here he met Gene Campbell whom he decided he wanted to marry. For the next several years the "crazy young American" committed to Canada every spare moment, and as soon as graduation was over, the two were married in the Navy Chapel. "And I'm still married to her," says Armor with a grin. The Armors have a son, a daughter, and a flock of grandchildren.

Subsequently Hal served on everything from battleships to transports, and in 1926 got his wings at Pensacola. In War II he commanded a flotilla of LCT's in the South Pacific.

During many of the long sea cruises Armor noticed some of the sailors carving ivory nuts into all kinds of intricate designs. One day he picked one up and started to work away at it. Gradually he became interested and in 1940, in Honolulu, he started to carve wood under the direction of Fritz Abplanalp, a Swiss sculptor who taught locally.

In 1947, upon retirement, Armor and his wife searched the Coast from Coronado to Los Gatos and found just the house they wanted in Carmel. That same year he took a piece of Ifi wood and did a torso in the style of Aphrodite of Cyrene. It was on display in the Carmel Art Association galleries, promptly sold, and Hal was off on an artistic career for good.

Several carved turtles and intricate redwood signs sold at the Clothesline Show (formerly held in the Pine Inn Court) then Armor was commissioned to do a set of nine black walnut panels for the Carmel Masonic Lodge. Later he did a series of plaques for the Naval Air Station at Santa Ana on lighter-than-air craft as well as the doors for the Carmel Presbyterian Church.

Working steadily, Armor did the life-size statue of Father Serra now on display in the Monterey Public Library, also the Polynesian heads in the French Shop in Carmel. Currently he has a massive Moses head on display at the Carmel Art Association Galleries which took a prize at the recent Church of the Wayfarer Show of Religious Art, plus a set of 12 plaques on display at the Mark Thomas Inn.

Armor feels strongly that there are more possibilities for the use of good sculpture today than ever before. He points out that the austere design simplicity of modern homes can be relieved some-

"Shut Up Or Prove It," P. A. McCreery Challenges Norberg

(Continued from Page One) meeting of the Adult Board and Youth Council of the Youth Center to determine the basis of these remarks. After considerable discussion, it was found that there was no apparent justification for this criticism.

"Therefore, it was decided by our Boards to welcome a meeting with anyone interested in order to permit presentation of specific information that will serve as welcome suggestions for a better Youth Center operation.

"We submit herewith a copy of the constitution and by-laws for your study."

In answer to the councilmen's accusation that Norberg had never backed up his smear of the Youth Center with specific charges, Norberg said that the age spread is too great in the membership, 13 to 21, "and there's a college graduate, 24 years old, who goes up there."

Councilman Allee Knight, who has served on the Adult Board of the Youth Center and has a courtesy membership card, trying to relieve the tension, said he has a membership card and he's considerably older than 24.

The Youth Center Board is "represented by citizens of this com-what by an effective use of carving. He also feels that the architect can help create a place in the home for effective display of sculpture.

While his own interest is in contemporary representational design, Armor admires the work of such men as Maillol, Barjac and Mestrovic strongly, as well as the creations of Jo Davidson, Paul Manship, John Rood and William Zorach.

Hal formerly taught adult classes at MPC, as well as Carmel and Monterey High Schools but now takes only private pupils. He is bothered by the fact that the ordinary lay person has not yet been educated to realize that he or she can commission works of sculpture in the same way that they would order oil paintings, and for approximately the same outlay. All this will come with time he feels, however.

For himself Hal Armor wants only to continue to work with the three materials he loves . . . wood, ivory and jade. These have not only color and texture but are warm to the touch and excite the senses. He is particularly keen on creating an outstanding work in jade; perhaps because it stimulates his sense of incongruity . . . for if one can encounter an ex-naval officer who works in jade in Carmel, then truly anything must be possible.

munity, and you should go directly to them with your complaints," Councilman James Buffington pointed out.

Mayor John Chitwood told Norberg that he had invited 40 persons, including him, to the White House Conference on Youth here last month, when the Youth Center, as well as other Youth activities were discussed, "and you didn't appear. Yet you say we are wrong and our children are wrong."

Councilman May pointed out that a city council meeting should not be used as a sounding board for complaints against the Youth Center, and that politics should be kept out of the Youth Center. This latter comment was inspired by a letter from John M. Lewis, former Seaside Youth Center Director, addressed to Mayor Chitwood and read before the council.

The letter:

October 28, 1959

Mayor John Chitwood
Carmel-by-the-Sea,
California.

Dear Mayor Chitwood:

"As a professional youth worker with many years of experience, I am naturally very interested in the commentaries relative to the Carmel Youth Center.

"Initially I would like to express my disappointment in the manner in which adverse publicity has been permitted to continue. This alone could bring about a negative situation, regardless of the merit of the existing program.

"During my one year tenure as Director of the Seaside Youth Center, a good character development type of program was launched only to be quickly dismantled by uninformed and unfounded criticism by public officials. This is a long and unhappy story in itself, however, there is one point that I wanted to bring to your attention. While in Seaside I started a youth center league type activity in volleyball, primarily to bring the Seaside youngsters in contact with other groups in a competitive but sportsmanlike atmosphere. The group that came over from the Carmel Youth Center was exemplary in their conduct. They not only won the tournament, they won the respect and admiration of everyone with whom they came in contact.

"Youth Centers attract all types of youngsters, if they did not, their role would be fruitless. The word quickly gets around if someone shows up at any Center with liquor on their breath, isn't it unfortunate that the word doesn't get around when the director or another youth worker meets that individual and convinces him that his singular actions could spoil a program that hundreds enjoy each day, simultaneously winning a friend and building a more mature personality. A fight is publicized, even if there is only a little pushing around and a few words while no word leaks out about the hand shake and friendship that the youth worker develops as an end result.

"I would be happy to meet with you or any group with some notice to tell you about youth center problems, here, there and everywhere. My phone number is FR 3-3231."

Respectfully yours,
John M. Lewis.

AAA SAYS "DELIGHTFUL"

High on a hill, in a beautiful landscaped setting of flowers and trees, that is reminiscent of the original Carmel. We have a variety of clean, tastefully furnished, individual Cottages from one to three bedrooms plus sitting room, each in its own flowery setting. All have modern completely equipped kitchens and private baths. All heat is thermostatically controlled and vented. Some fireplaces, some private patios. Off-street parking for all cars, mostly covered — off street space for your extra car too!

Here you may enjoy your stay in complete privacy, minus the annoying closeness of neighbors, either over or under you.

Visitors are always welcome to browse through our grounds, see our beautiful flowers, or just rest in one of our patios.

The high powered salesmen are here, we almost bought an elevator until we realized that our cottages are at ground floor level, we didn't want to dig a hole either. Had an excellent buy on sound proofing too, but with individual cottages we didn't need any. Another had an excellent line of dog collars and leashes, but as we do not accept pets, nor do we own one we thought this would be something that wouldn't sell.

Then there was the man who thought it would be dandy if we would replace all the nice double and twin beds in our bedrooms with a push button, pop up, studio couch that would serve coffee, too. Didn't waste much time on that one.

We were going to buy several hundred palm trees too! But on serious consideration we think the several thousand dollars we spend yearly on gardening, should go for the same type of flowers that are in keeping with the original Carmel.

Should we have a vacancy, we would be glad to show you, and quote rates. Reservations are always advisable. Due to our advance bookings we cannot offer monthly rates. Our daily and weekly rates are moderate.
